Try to see if there are any fiber bends or fiber that might have been curved a bit too much. Also check your optical temperature if it's too high, that will also increase dBm. Issues will be ...

It is required that a long-distance optical module have an input optical power of less than -7 dBm. If the input optical power is greater than -7 dBm, you need to add an optical attenuator.

It is unlikely that the optical power is your problem unless you were also getting a lot of CRC or other types of errors. Optical power is not something you can easily change. You won't have...
